

Passionate about education. Fascinated with technology.

Rita Falcao has been working with technology applied to education since 1998. First, worked in an education publishing company as project manager where acquired media skills. In 2001, Rita Falcao moved to the Higher Education sector where she grew to be an e-learning specialist and a teacher in learning technologies. Rita Falcao has a PhD in Digital Media (2013) in the field of e-learning and assessment of learning outcomes, a MsC in Multimedia and Technology (2004) in the field of e-learning and reusable learning objects.

The main areas of interest and research are innovation, e-learning, assesment of learning, learning outcomes, open education and education policies.